

Professor Amrita Narlikar
Curriculum Vitae

Present Appointments

President of the German Institute for Global and Area Studies (GIGA), Hamburg (since 2014).
Professor of International Relations at the Faculty of Economics and Social Sciences, Hamburg
Universität (permanent position) (since 2014).

Personal academic highlights in recent years (even while serving as the GIGA President) include four volumes with top-notch publishing houses, in addition to papers in the highly-ranked disciplinary journals. As PI/ Co-PI of research projects, between 2019 and 2023, I have also raised almost € 3 million of external funding for the GIGA.

My research expertise lies in the fields of international negotiation, WTO, multilateralism, and Indian strategic thought.

BOOKS

Authored Books

1. Co-authored with Aruna Narlikar and Amitabh Mattoo, Strategic Choices, Ethical Dilemmas: Stories from the Mahabharat, Penguin Random House, 2023.

Advance Praise for the Book:

A remarkable book which shows how the rich content of ancient texts produced by centuries of ancient Indian statecraft can and should be used to inform our present debates on issues of foreign and security policy and their ethics...If there is a beginning to an Indian school of international relations, it is in a work like this, grounded in our past but not trapped by it—Shivshankar Menon, diplomat and former National Security Adviser of India.

In this elegant and enchanting volume, Aruna Narlikar, Amitabh Mattoo and Amrita Narlikar retell the ancient stories of the Mahabharat to help us reflect and cope with the multiple moral dilemmas of modern life—C. Raja Mohan, Institute of South Asian Studies, National University of Singapore.

‘The author trio have set out to share with their readers the universal lessons that the ancient story of the Mahabharat offers. Treating the Mahabharat as a manual for modern day, the episodes quoted illustrate clearly how the Mahabharat’s message is seen as relevant for today. The authors explain this in simple, beautifully crafted words’—Nirmala Sitharaman, finance minister of India.

‘Strategic Choices, Ethical Dilemmas: Stories from the Mahabharat is a brilliant disquisition on the timeless lessons in statecraft, foreign policy and societal organization that can be derived from the Mahabharat. Engaging and insightful, the authorial trio’s seasoned expertise is on excellent display as they unpack why the epic is relevant to global politics centuries after it was first told. Epochs change, human nature rarely does! A thoroughly enjoyable, diverting and instructive read’—Shashi Tharoor, former minister and Member of Lok Sabha.

2. Amrita Narlikar, Poverty Narratives and Power Paradoxes in International Trade Negotiations and Beyond, New York: Cambridge University Press, May 2020, <https://www.cambridge.org/core/books/poverty-narratives-and-power-paradoxes-in-international-trade-negotiations-and-beyond/E590E360D5F0409A2E9F184664071D39>.

Sample Reviews:

‘This is one of those books that will force casual observers of international trade politics to rethink their priors.’

The Washington Post, 18 June 2020.

‘Ultimately, this is a book that uses the prism of the ‘poverty/powerlessness’ narratives to capture the many power shifts and struggles defining this moment in history, from the redistribution of power across states all the way to the gender, race and intergenerational challenges that have achieved an acute salience in our lifetime. It is remarkable that Narlikar has managed to elegantly connect such a wide span of topics within a relatively succinct book.’

International Affairs, 96: 4, 2020.

3. Amrita Narlikar and Aruna Narlikar, Bargaining with a Rising India: Lessons from the Mahabharata, Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2014.

Sample Reviews:

‘Aside from its valuable insights into India’s negotiating behaviour, this book is also a major contribution to the study of International Relations, where there is a crying need for theories and concepts derived from non-western cultures and context. The Mahabharata may be semi-fictional, and its characters a mix of divine and human, but it carries plenty of rational, moral and secular positions and arguments to qualify as a source of studying contemporary strategy and diplomacy. The Greek historian Thucydides, otherwise known for his scientific approach to history, made good use of epic poetry. Bargaining with a rising India reminds one of Richard Ned Lebow’s A cultural theory of international relations (CUP, 2008, reviewed in International Affairs 85: 3) which develops a theory of conflict and cooperation out of the Greek idea of honour.’

International Affairs, 90:6, 2014.

‘Narlikar and Narlikar provide knowledge and a fun way to read both a classic and a contemporary story in India’s bargaining behaviours in terms of trade, investment and political alliance with other countries.’

Political Studies Review, 14: 4, 2016.

4. Amrita Narlikar, New Powers: How to become one and how to manage them, London: Hurst Publications, and New York: Oxford University Press, 2010.

Sample Review:

‘...is a persuasive account of why we should take time to study and understand the negotiating strategies of these powers. Doing so, Narlikar argues, could help to reduce uncertainty and misunderstanding about their intentions and thus also the risk of conflict. There is a clear message for policy-makers here.’

International Affairs, 87:2, 2011.

5. Amrita Narlikar, The World Trade Organization: A Very Short Introduction, Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2005.

Translated into:

Chinese

Arabic.

Sample Review:

‘Narlikar’s engagement with public debates is exemplary – a task too rarely attempted by critical scholars in this area. Moreover, in providing an empirical study of actual political processes and outcomes, this book is a timely rejoinder to the fledgling study of global governance. An exceptional introduction to the WTO.’

Political Studies Review, 4: 2, 2006.

6. Amrita Narlikar, International Trade and Developing Countries: Coalitions in the GATT and WTO, London: Routledge, 2003.
(Paperback edition, 2005)

Sample Review:

‘...an impressively rigorous and informed study of the role and efficacy of bargaining coalitions, especially but not exclusively of developing countries, for trade negotiations in both the GATT (especially the Uruguay Round) and the WTO (up to Doha). The book is written in an accessible style and provides a valuable addition to the collection of anybody interested in multilateral trade negotiations.’

Journal of International Development, 17, 2005.

Policy Advice:

Engage with policy-makers at multiple levels on a frequent basis.

Since coming to Germany, I have had an intensified exchange with the federal government; engage in bilateral/ small-group consultations with foreign ministries and embassies of other countries as well as EU parliamentarians, plus I continue to work with some international organizations.

A few examples:

- I am involved in various policy initiatives relating to multilateralism and global governance, including the Global Solutions Initiative as well as the T20 process launched under India's G20 Presidency.
- Served as member of Distinguished Reflection Group, Transatlantic Policy on China, Munich Security Conference, 2021, which drafted the report, <https://securityconference.org/en/publications/report-of-the-transatlantic-reflection-group-on-china/>; also served on the team for the 2nd edition, which was launched in 2023 https://securityconference.org/assets/user_upload/ASG-MERICS-MS-C-Report-2023-Bridging-the-Gap-final.pdf .
- Served as member of Global Future Council on Frontier Risks, World Economic Forum, 2021
- Served as member of Regional Action Group for South Asia, World Economic Forum, 2020, 2021
- Conducted Interview with Annegret Kramp-Karrenbauer, German Federal Minister of Defence, aired as part of Raisina Dialogue, 16 April 2021 (<https://twitter.com/samirsaran/status/1382948303441043457>).
- Chaired and moderated GIGA Distinguished Speaker Lecture delivered by NATO Secretary General, Jens Stoltenberg, 30 June 2020 (https://www.nato.int/cps/en/natohq/opinions_176983.htm?selectedLocale=uk).
- Served as moderator at event hosted by the German and French Foreign Ministers on the Alliance for Multilateralism at the United Nations, Geneva, with inputs from some 20 foreign ministers, 24 February 2020; accompanied Germany's Federal Foreign Minister, Heiko Maas, as part of his official delegation to the World Trade Organization.
- Served as moderator at Munich Security Conference, main-stage event on multilateralism with Heiko Maas (Foreign Minister, Germany), Dr. S. Jaishankar (Minister of External Affairs, Republic of India), Margrethe Vestager (Executive Vice President for a Europe Fit for the Digital Age, European Commission), Kang Kyung-Wha (Minister of Foreign Affairs, Republic of Korea), Lindsey O. Graham (Senator, Chairman of the Senate Committee on the Judiciary, United States of America), 14 Feb 2020.

<https://securityconference.org/mediathek/album/muenchner-sicherheitskonferenz-2020/>.

- Chaired and moderated GIGA Distinguished Speaker Lecture by Julia Klöckner, Federal Minister for Food and Agriculture, 4 February 2020.
- Accompanied Germany's Federal Foreign Minister, Heiko Maas, to New York, Toronto, and the Canadian Arctic, offering advice on multilateralism and trade in August 2019.
- Gave invited talk to CDU-CSU parliamentarians on India as value-oriented partner for Germany in October 2019.
- At the invitation of the Director of the Trade Policy Review Division of the WTO, brainstormed in roundtable exchange with division members in November 2019.
- Gave invited talk to FDP parliamentarians on WTO reform in December 2019.
- Accompanied Federal President Frank-Walter Steinmeier on state visit to India in March 2018.

While I was in the UK, I served as expert witness/ gave lectures in European Parliament, House of Lords, South African Department of Trade and Industry, Rio Branco Institute of the Brazilian Ministry of Foreign Affairs (Itamaraty), South Centre and other such institutions.
